

Eric Sustad

A Friendly Face for Your Family Immigration Needs

Eric specializes in immigration law, with a focus on family-based immigration, victim visas, and business-based immigration. Fluent in English, French, and Spanish, Eric represents clients before U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, handling adjustment of status and consular processing for foreign nationals seeking family- and employment-based immigration benefits. He has extensive experience in Immigration Courts, assisting clients with bond proceedings and relief from removal. Eric began his career in Minnesota, later moving to Washington DC, and then to Texas where he dedicated nearly half a decade to representing a Fortune 500 company in all its business immigration matters. Before joining Weinstock Immigration Lawyers, Eric held positions in both large and small firms, where he successfully managed departments specializing in victim visas and family-based visas.

A Dedicated Professional Passionate about His Clients

Eric is deeply committed to each of his clients, recognizing the unique circumstances of every case. He invests his time and patience to offer compassionate assistance, understanding the significance of the immigration process for each individual. Having witnessed the profound impact of family separation, Eric staunchly advocates for his clients, standing up to defend their rights and interests.
